Looking forward with delight.

We live in a time of fast-moving, swirling events which are coming upon our world with the kind of intensity and rapidity that takes one's breath away. Most of the people of America check the morning news with an attitude of "What has taken place during the night that will further destabilize this world of ours?" They are usually not disappointed, because more notable events are occurring in a day than once took place in weeks or months in the slow-moving history of our world. Indeed, history itself seems to be moving faster, which movement, of course, brings us ever closer to the consummation of all things. Because the world senses this, apprehension is certainly the characteristic attitude of the secular mind in our time.

*"Behold, I have set before you an open door, and no man can shut it"
(Rev. 3:8).*

"THE GIFT OF ANTICIPATION"

Apprehension, however, should never be the attitude of the believing Christian. For us, life in our time is turning into the great adventure. The heart of the Christian should be filled with delight in that God has called us, privileged us to live in this very provocative generation.

We are advised, therefore, in the world, to be filled with faith, to be anxious for nothing, to walk with the confidence that only the presence of Christ can bring. By contrast to the troubled spirits of our present age, the Christian should be a towering figure of foundational stability and great purpose. These characteristics will be especially noted and jealously respected by an envious world, which has forgotten the Lord who is, alone, the Author of stability and serenity. Rather than give way to apprehension, the Christian must have a heart filled with anticipation. Indeed, he should be breathless with anticipation in times like these.

Anticipation means "to look forward with delight." What then does the Christian anticipate? In our time especially, he looks forward to great opportunity. To the Church of our time, Christ has already said, "Behold, I have set before you an open door, and no man can shut it" (Rev. 3:8). Quite obviously, that open door, that opportunity is coming upon us as never before.

More and more, the world is saying, "Who can I trust? What can I believe in?"

From the world of academia, or politics, or business, or education, no answer appears to be forthcoming to these pressing questions. The answer, of course, can only come from the Word of the living God. That Word, articulated from the lips of the witnessing Christian, can do so much in a time like this. The purpose of the believer in our time, as in all time, is to hold forth the Word of Life. By so doing, the Bible teaches that he will even be instrumental in influencing the course of a crooked and perverse nation, among whom he shines as a light in the world.

As the world moves into the gloaming of the afternoon of its history, the shining light of a Christian's testimony will be more apparent, more illuminating than ever. Above every other emotion in life, the Christian should anticipate opportunity.

He should also anticipate challenging problems. This is true because the world of our time is not a simple place in which to live. Its mental health is daily disturbed by new awesome considerations. Its very crust is troubled upon occasion with ever-increasing earthquakes. Its leaders meet in pathetic summit conferences to make empty, dangerous promises to one another. Its financiers wonder what they will be worth by noon tomorrow. Its industrialists count their gold coins and newly submit to the lie that these pieces of metal will not, one day, melt and run away.

How shall the Church conduct its ministry in a world like this? The answer is not simple. This means that the Christian leaders of our time must be more thoughtful, yes, more intellectual, more theologically oriented, more doctrinally sound, more perceptive, more prescient, more analytical and more earnest than ever. The pathetic promises of the phenomenologists, the empty charade of the exhibitionists, the hopeless delusions of the liberationists will no longer suffice as credentials for Christian leadership. The unctuous, torchy song and the vain repetitions of the pulpit will not be adequate to ministry in these days to our perplexed society.

Rather, the challenging problems inherent in the world and which are now facing the Church can only be met by the careful teaching and preaching of the Word of God. The revival we need today is not one of hypocritical emotion or crocodile tears--it is the revival of sound doctrine. It is the Word which lives and abides forever. The advent of perplexing difficulties should not distress us. Rather, they should press us to levels of prayer and perception which will then lead to greater accomplishments than ever.

Breathless with anticipation that's what the Christian should be. His anticipation, however, is not for this world alone. It is also anticipation for the glory which is to come. Speaking about this world and the next, the Bible says, "Our light affliction, which is but for a moment, works for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory" (2 Cor. 4:17). This world, at its best, at its brightest, at its most fulfilling, is but a passing scene. One day, we will slip away from this human scene and one day, the whole world itself will be consumed and done away with. It is but the stage, the backdrop for the adventure of living this life within it. Then, we are translated to the glory of heaven. Then, and only then, will we see the final fulfillment, the ultimate perfection for which our hearts long. Then we will be with Christ and then we will fully understand why it is that God led us through the problems and perplexities of this life.

But remember, then we will also have the opportunity of hearing what may be the greatest words that we shall know in all of eternity. These are the words of Christ in which He speaks of His servants who have represented Him well in this world, saying, "Well done, good and faithful servant...enter thou into the joy of thy lord."

What a day that will be! It is that anticipation that must become the surging motivation of the lives that we live today and every day for Christ.

SPIRITUAL INITIATIVE

There are, in fact, untold millions of Christians in today's world who are "waiting for God to work" and quietly rocking their lives away in the meantime. In the process of waiting, the eyes close in quiet slumber; should opportunity then knock at the door, that sound would not be heard. Quiescent Christians fill our churches and their immobility (sometimes called spirituality) becomes a great limitation to the working of the Lord.

To all who name the name of Christ in our time the Scripture extends the earnest call, "Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light" (Eph. 5:14). An even stronger word is heard from the Bible, saying, "How long will you sleep, O sluggard? when will you arise out of your sleep? Yet a little sleep, a little slumber, a little folding of the hands to sleep: So shall your poverty come as one that travels, and your want as an armed man" (Prov. 6:9-11). These are earnest words which come from our Lord, words of which we need to take note not once but many times in life. They are at least a reminder that we need to wake up, arouse ourselves, gird our armor on, and seize the spiritual initiative, lest we sink down into a slumber which is very similar to death.

This is the problem that James faced in his epistle. He addressed a unitarian idea of a distant and unassociated God when he said, "You believe that there is one God; you do well: the devils also believe, and tremble. But will you know, O vain man, that faith without works is dead?" (James 2:19,20). Here James reminds us all that our faith, unless it is characterized by spiritual initiative works is dead. Here, James used the word dead in the sense of being unable to reproduce itself. Paul used the dead in the same way when speaking about Abraham's faith: "And being not weak in faith, he considered not his own body now dead, when he was about an hundred years old, neither yet the deadness of Sarah's womb: He staggered not at the promise of God through unbelief; but was strong in faith, giving glory to God" (Romans 4:19,20). Abraham, being beyond the age of fatherhood, was unable to reproduce himself. His body is called "dead." In the same sense, the Christian who has only faith, but does not work to propagate his faith, has a faith that is "dead," i.e.: unable to reproduce itself. Just so, that deadening influence can come upon any of us who only believe, but who do not seize the initiative to reproduce our faith in the lives of others.

We can lose the spiritual initiative in many ways. Christians can lose the initiative out of fear. Too often they ask, "What will people think?" "Will I be thought a fanatic by taking the spiritual initiative?" If they fear the opinions of others because of their overt spirituality, they will soon die--they will lose the initiative.

We can lose the initiative also because of neglect. The things of this world can reduce the thrill of learning new things from the Bible, communicating with God in prayer, and anticipating with joy the opportunity of leading another to Christ.

In these, and a hundred other ways, the initiative has been lost by the ecclesiastical establishment down through the years. Christianity has been in the world for two thousand years and still, more than half the world needs yet to hear the Gospel.

To lose the initiative leads to impotence, boredom, frustration, the sleep of the depressed, spiritual death.

Many individual Christians speak not at all about the Savior, nor seek at all to win others to Him. They give with reluctance, labor little or not at all. The initiative-- and along with it the thrill, the joy, the adventure--is gone. Their faith, being without the attempt at spiritual accomplishment, is dead.

Mind you, we are not speaking about salvation, but about living, working, gladiating for Christ in this world. The admonition is "Don't lose the spiritual initiative!" To do so is to die of boredom, which is the worst way to go.

The motivation of our lives must not be money, fame, aggrandizement, fulfillment in the narrow scenes of time. For the Christian, there is something infinitely better! It is heaven, it is eternity. The Apostle Paul committed everything that he had to Christ, "against that day" (2 Tim. 1:12). That day, the day when eternity supercedes forever the scenes of time that day may soon be upon us. May we all be ready.

“Noah’s Ark continues to capture the imagination of the general public, and this interest spans all social, religious and economic segments. The Ark and the flood is one of the few historical events which are well known in the worldwide global circle.”

“POLITICAL CORRECTNESS, which is simply another word for legalized dishonesty, is really wounding us as people. It is damaging our logic, injuring our goodwill, testing our patience, and causing long-term harm to our freedom.

For it is political correctness that is silencing the truth—the truth that everyone knows. Even our enemies.”

Questions & Answers

Q. How can I retain my personal composure and stability in the face of today’s troubled scene?

A. This is a question which millions are asking today. Remember, we have the promise of Scripture made to every Christian in every circumstance, “Be anxious for nothing; but in every thing by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God. And the peace of God, which passes all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus” (Phil. 4:6,7). It is clear that our personal composure and stability are not supposed to depend upon our external circumstances, but on our inner relationship with Jesus Christ. The Bible never promises us cooperating circumstances or predictable tomorrows. Christ, however, does promise us, “Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world” (Matt. 28:20). Christian joy is built on union with Christ and the confidence that He lives within our hearts. Certain of this, we can talk with confidence despite the troubled scene on the outside. Confidence which is built on the presence and promise of Christ is a sure thing; all other confidences, even in the mind of a Christian, are shaky foundations indeed.

Q. How can I get over being afraid to speak of Christ?

A. In the Scriptures we notice that most of the time the disciples had no such problem. About them, the Scripture says, “And they called them, and commanded them not to speak at all nor teach in the name of Jesus. But Peter and John answered and said unto them, Whether it be right in the sight of God to harken unto you more than to God, you judge. For we cannot but speak the things which we have seen and heard” (Acts 4:18-20). The disciples saw Christ, they heard Him preach and the balance of their lives was spent telling the world about Him. Nevertheless, the Apostle Paul asked for prayer, “that utterance may be given to me, that I may open my mouth boldly, to make known the mystery of the Gospel, For which I am an ambassador in bonds: that therein I may speak boldly, as I ought to speak” (Eph. 6:19,20).

Q. How can I be controlled by the Holy Spirit?

A. It is never the intention of the Lord that you be controlled by the Holy Spirit. Rather, the Scripture teaches that we are led by the Spirit, saying, “For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God” (Rom. 8:14). The Spirit, rather, would teach us that blessed quality of self-control. We are not marionettes pulled by strings from heaven. No, we are free moral agents and the Christian grows more free every day.

THE DEPARTURE
God's Next Catastrophic Intervention
Into Earth's History
 by Terry James & Others

As the world races toward its momentous end-times encounter with God, cascading fulfillments of Bible prophecy clearly point to the catching away of the saints--an event popularly known as the Rapture of the Church. Specific circumstances which were prophesied to occur in the days just before this departure, would appear as signs of the nearing moment, including:

- > The emergence of a new global order and global government
- > Technological developments making possible the Mark of the Beast
- > Apocalyptic turmoil in the Middle East, pointing toward nuclear Armageddon
- > Global fascination with occult, demonic and other-worldly manifestations
- > Departure from the faith, giving space to false doctrines
- > Worldwide violence, upheaval, like it was in the days of Noah

The theme of this book is how Satan and his cohorts accomplish the feat of deception and how far his preparations have progressed. "And all the world wondered after the beast...and they worshiped the beast...and power was given him over all kindreds, and tongues, and nations...and all that dwell upon the earth shall worship him...and he does great wonders, so that he makes fire come down from heaven on earth in the sight of men, and deceives them that dwell on the earth" (Rev. 13:3-14).
