The Bible promises that God's loving Son will work effectively within every believer, bringing that believer from spiritual childhood into godly maturity.

This world, this secular culture in the midst of which we live, makes a mistake every single day of its troubled life. That mistake is in believing that this life which we call "our human existence" in this world is everything. As a consequence of believing this totally untrue proposition, the world and the people in it live lives of daily hopelessness and mounting desperation. This is increasingly true as people move from youth to age. In facing the advancing of the years, older citizens of this human culture, the ones who retain adequate perception, face the fact that they are on the final downhill run to the expiration of life. Whether they feel good or not, they can count. In this count, they subtract a day of life with each twenty-four-hour period. The despair comes when they remember that they will live but a finite number of days and then their lives in this world will be gone. The person who believes the philosophy that "this life is everything," called humanism, moves inevitably from the hope of youth to the despair of advancing years. "Unyielding despair," said one of them, "is the only foundation on which life can be built."

"FROM EARTH TO GLORY"

Many Christians make something like this same mistake, but to a different degree from what the man of the world does. The mistake of many a Christian, especially in our time, is simply to place too much emphasis on this human life. He believes and concentrates on earthly things to the extent that he foolishly sacrifices the joys that come from being conscious of the reality of eternity. Christians who "mind earthly things" are not complimented in the Bible.

What then should our attitude be about the things of time and the things of eternity? The proper outlook concerning life is found in a wonderful promise given to us by the Apostle Paul. He speaks to each believer and says, "He which has begun a good work in you will perform it until the day of Jesus Christ" (Phil. 1:6).

This promise which God makes to every Christian can be an unending source of confidence for us which lasts through time and into eternity. From these words we can be instructed as to confident human living and the promise of heaven. It is readily suggested that this verse instructs us concerning the path that leads "all the way from earth to glory."

This verse, first of all, tells us that now that we are saved, Christ has begun a good work in us. Most of us will never forget the moment in which we said that wonderful "Yes!" to Jesus Christ. At that instant, we received imputed righteousness, we were seated in the heavenlies with Christ, we were given eternal life and the promise that we would never perish. The instant a person believes in the death, burial, and resurrection of Christ, receiving Jesus as personal Savior, he is eternally saved from the penalty of sin. He will never go to hell, his reservation for heaven is arranged and certified by an omnipotent God. Christ has begun a good work in him.

We can, therefore, promise that any person, looking for answers in life and wondering about eternity, can become a child of God in an instant by believing the Gospel of Jesus Christ. We invite any reader at this very moment to believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God, that He died for our sins on Calvary's cross, and receive Him as personal Savior. Christ begins His good work at that moment and His first work is to save to the uttermost and bring to the heart of the seeker the assurance of salvation.

Considering the path from earth to glory, God promises us in this verse that Jesus Christ, who has begun a good work in us, will continue it. Yes, the Bible promises that God's powerful and loving Son will work efficiently and effectively within every believer, bringing that believer from innocence to holiness, from spiritual childhood into godly maturity. So sure and certain is this work of Jesus Christ within us that the Scripture says that we, foreknown of God, are predestinated to be conformed to the image of His Son. This means that God will inexorably and inevitably bring us to Christian maturity, preparing us for rulership in heaven one day.

Each of us does well to cooperate with that divine program in us. In cooperating, we can be escalated with dispatch, elevated in a relatively short period of time to influence, leadership, capability as we live in this world. That's where leadership comes from! It comes from people, men and women, who work at the same thing Christian maturity that God is at the same time working in them. The promise that we are workers together with God means a whole lot more than cutting the grass in the back of the church on Saturday mornings. It means that we are cooperating in the fashioning of our lives to move one day into our kingly responsibilities.

How encouraging, then, is the promise that God will persist in His working within us by day and by night, through all of the winters, springs, summers, and falls of our Christian lives. Each day and each hour, He will labor to fulfill the promise, "For it is God which works in you both to will and to do of His good pleasure" (Phil. 2:13).

This verse of promise gives us an additional, marvelous source of encouragement. The working of God will continue in our lives until the day of Jesus Christ. Yes, it will continue all the way from earth to glory. What, then, is the day of Jesus Christ? It is the day when Jesus Christ steps clearly, visibly, unignorably into our lives. As we walk in this world, we walk by faith and not by sight. We labor as seeing Him who is invisible. Jesus Christ, while truly our Savior, is still the one "Whom having not seen, you love; in whom, though now you see Him not, yet believing, you rejoice with joy unspeakable and full of glory" (1 Peter 1:8).

There is coming, however, a time when faith will change to sight, when we will be with Him and He will be with us, He will be visible, touchable, real.

For each one of us as Christians, that day, the day of Jesus Christ, will begin in one of two ways. It will begin for many in the day that we are translated via physical death from earth to glory. When we move from this life, in an instant we are present with the Lord. The Apostle Paul said, I have the "desire to depart and to be with Christ," and he said that such a move was "far better." Then it would come to pass in our lives the promise that "Our light affliction, which is but for a moment, works for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory" (2 Cor. 4:17). How overwhelming, then, will be the discovery that our human lives were not only not everything, they were not even much by comparison to the glory that is now revealed in us.

The day of Christ, however, will begin for many in another way, in the Rapture of the Church. One day, Christ will descend from heaven and He will take His Church, His Bride from this world to be in glory with Him. From that moment on, we will be "with Him" and He will be with us. In that moment, we will be able to look back at this dark, gloomy world and realize that it was but the prelude to reality and not reality itself. In that day, when we know even as we are known, we will experience the final essence of salvation, deliverance from the very presence of sin.

How grand will be that day! How great will be our rejoicing, in that we have arrived at our ultimate destination, heaven itself.

While we rejoice in this hope, let us remember for a moment the infinite sorrow that will continue with the man, the woman, the youth of this world who does not know Christ. For the unbeliever, the passing, trivial joys of this world are the best that he will ever know. For, beyond life in this world, they will live in the infinite suffering of a lost eternity. That lost eternity for them will be filled with the deepest regret and the profound sorrow that comes from knowing that it could have been otherwise.

Before that day comes, we must work to bring men and women to the place of faith in Jesus Christ. Soon will the season of rescue be over, but while it is on, we have the opportunity of touching lost men and women with the message of the Gospel.

The path of blessing that will take us all from earth to glory is assured to us because we have come to know Christ. We need do no work in order to be saved. We are, however, the very workmanship of Jesus Christ, His masterpiece, representing Him in this world. By His power, He makes us strong, articulate, and capable, so that others, because we have lived, may come to know the Savior.

Yes, the path of salvation takes us all the way from earth to glory. Why not today labor to bring others to Christ so that they may join you on that path. One day the gates to eternity will be forever closed. As of now, however, they remain open so that you and I may yet in good faith extend to this world an earnest invitation to join us at the gates of heaven.

CONTINUANCE

After the passing of the years,
When sullen earth has ceased its hold
Beyond the reach of human tears,
For us will come the age of gold.

When temporal fads have all expired,
When finest friends have passed away,
When noblest thoughts that once inspired
Are but the words of yesterday.

When human plans and earthly things
Have spent their force and now retire,
When shining hope no longer brings
The flame to set the heart afire.

What then? Are joys forever past?
Is there but the waiting grave?
Is death of everything the last,
No matter how we rage and rave?

Ah no, for in our inner heart
We know, for God helps us to know
That life on earth is but a part,
A launching pad from here below.

From here we rise to heaven's land,
To gold and ivory palaces,
To eat delights on every hand,
To drink from silver chalices.

Then shall we know as long we should
That life on earth must always cease;
That heaven's ahead for all who would,
Life here is but the first small piece.

We therefore shall rejoice, rejoice!
Exulting in our future state;
We'll pay no heed to earth's sad voice
Nor share in mankind's dismal fate.

We'll climb one day the golden stair
That bears us up to realms of glory;
Then shall we know as we are known,
And live the great continued story.

THE TIDE OF OUR TIMES

G. George Ens, M.D.

Dr. Ens was a retired medical doctor when he joined our staff here in Christian Destiny. He was a gifted musician and was a part of several musical organizations. He was also a good theologian and was helpful to many. He had a genuine concern for those who hadn't accepted Christ as their Savior.

“APPLE INC. ONCE AGAIN shut down an app from its popular iTunes App Store because it promoted Bible-based ideas. This time the app that was removed belonged to Exodus International, a well-established Christian ministry...” Apple “deemed the Christian group’s Biblical position ‘offensive to large groups of people.’” “AFGHANISTAN COULD BE holding $1 trillion of untapped mineral deposits including critical industrial metals such as lithium...

The previously unknown deposits of iron, copper, cobalt and gold are so huge that it could transform the impoverished nation into one of the world’s important mining centers...

The mineral wealth, discovered by a team of Pentagon officials and U.S. geologists, is scattered throughout the country...

Lithium is a key raw material in the manufacture of batteries for laptops and other electronics such as mobile telephones.”

“DID YOU KNOW? There are currently five over-life sized bronze statues on the Liberty Walk on the Hillsdale College campus [in Hillsdale, Michigan]. They are of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln, Winston Churchill and Margaret Thatcher. A sixth statue, of Ronald Reagan, will be dedicated in October.”

The challenge of living successfully and righteously can be accomplished as your life is committed to Christ and led of the Holy Spirit.

Questions & Answers

Q. In the Millennium, will everybody be living with Christ or will they be spread out all over the earth?

A. The indication is that they will be spread out. The Prophet Zechariah says that people from all nations will go to Jerusalem every year at the Feast of Tabernacles to worship the King: “And it shall come to pass, that every one that is left of all the nations which came against Jerusalem shall even go up from year to year to worship the King, the Lord of hosts, and to keep the feast of tabernacles” (Zech. 14:16).

This shows that there will be those living in other places too. In fact, as the world population multiplies fruitfully during that 1,000 year period, this will be a necessity. In all likelihood, nations will just send contingents of people to worship the Lord, as all the world’s population could not fit in one city. But still, everyone in the Millennium will be touched by the Lord’s presence, as communication devices bring news of His activities into every home on an ongoing basis.

Q. Why did God allow Satan to operate after his rebellion, knowing that through him, sin would enter the world and the majority of the world would be unsaved and end up in hell?

A. God wants us to love Him out of our free will. To do so, we must have an alternative. Satan serves as that alternative from which mankind must choose. If there were no alternative to following God, there would be no free will, and we would follow Him as if we were preprogrammed to do so. No one really wants human relationships to be that way, and God does not want that for our relationship with Him, either.

Further, Satan quite often is used by God to accomplish His ultimate will. Joseph’s brothers sold him into slavery in Egypt, but Joseph ended up as Pharaoh’s right-hand man during a severe famine. As a result, Joseph was able to save his family, the children of Israel. When he was reunited with them, he said: “But as for you, ye thought evil against me; but God meant it unto good, to bring to pass, as it is this day, to save much people alive” (Genesis 50:20).

It should be of some comfort, however, to remember that Satan cannot operate outside of the confines of the permissive will of God. Satan came before the throne of God to accuse Job, and God gave Satan permission to test Job, but only within certain parameters (Job 1:6-12; 2:1-6). As we know, Job passed the test by maintaining his faith in God. God responded by restoring to Job twice what he had originally lost (Job 42:10-17).

The most notable biblical example of God’s use of Satan’s evil for a greater good, of course, is Satan’s motivation of the Jewish and Roman leader of Jesus’ day to condemn Him to death. But by Jesus’ death, burial, and resurrection, mankind’s sin debt was paid.

The fault does not lie with God for allowing Satan to perpetrate evil. The fault lies with those who do not take advantage of God’s greatest gift to mankind, salvation through Jesus Christ. All of our praise goes to God for offering that sacrifice on our behalf.
